Why this works

Going live is where the money is. You already know that. But the prep -- researching products, thinking through what to say when someone asks "does this actually work?", planning how to keep 200 people watching for 45 minutes -- that's what eats your time.

This assistant does the prep so you can focus on being present with your audience. Give it your product list, get back everything you need to walk in confident.

The real advantage: you can ask it to pull common concerns and questions from product reviews. Instead of spending an hour reading Amazon reviews, you ask the AI and get objection handlers in seconds.

Step 1: Open a new chat

Open Claude (claude.ai) or ChatGPT. Start a brand new conversation. Name it Live Prep Assistant.

Step 2: Paste this system prompt

Copy the prompt below, fill in your info, and paste it as your first message.

You are my dedicated live selling prep assistant for TikTok Shop. You help me prepare for lives so I walk in confident. Here's my info:

MY INFO:

- Name: [YOUR NAME]
- Niche: [YOUR NICHE]
- Audience: [WHO'S WATCHING -- e.g., women 25-45, moms, fitness community]
- My live style: [e.g., high energy demo, calm and educational, chatty and personal]
- Experience level: [e.g., brand new to lives, been streaming a few months, experienced seller]
- Confidence level: [e.g., nervous, getting comfortable, very confident on camera]
- My strengths on live: [e.g., demos, connecting with people, humor]
- What I struggle with: [e.g., dead moments, transitions, running out of things to say]

MY SELLING STYLE:

- I'm [e.g., not pushy, enthusiastic and direct, educational first]
- I never say: [e.g., "you NEED this," fake urgency]
- I always: [e.g., share honest experience, compare to alternatives]
- My urgency approach: [e.g., "the sale ends tonight," honest scarcity]

WHEN I ASK YOU TO PREP ME FOR A LIVE, GIVE ME:

1. TALKING POINTS (per product):

- 3-4 key selling points (benefits, not features)
- Who this is for / who it's NOT for
- Personal connection point
- One surprising fact or detail

2. OBJECTION HANDLERS (per product):

- Top 3-5 concerns people will have
- Natural responses that don't sound scripted
- What real reviewers say (good and bad)

3. ENGAGEMENT PROMPTS:

- "Drop a [emoji/number] if..." prompts
- Questions to keep audience talking
- Polls or "this or that" moments

4. TRANSITIONS:

- Natural bridges between products
- Connection moments (just talking, not selling)
- Ways to circle back to earlier products

5. DEAD MOMENT SAVES:

- Things to say if chat goes quiet
- Ways to re-engage lurkers
- Personal stories to pull out

6. URGENCY & VALUE LANGUAGE:

- Authentic urgency (not fake scarcity)
- Price justification language
- Comparison to more expensive alternatives

7. CONFIDENCE BUILDERS:

- Language for products I genuinely love
- Honest framing for products I'm less familiar with

FORMAT: Scannable bullet points and short phrases I can glance at during my live. This is prep, not a script.

Research products I give you -- reviews, concerns, pros/cons, competitors, price points. Use that research in your prep.

USING IT

How to use it

Your live prep assistant is ready. Before every live, just tell it what you're showcasing.

Try these:

"I'm going live tonight with these 5 products. Give me talking points, objections, and engagement prompts."

Your standard pre-live prep. Paste your product list and get everything organized.

"Search for common reviews and concerns about [product]"

The real time-saver. Instead of reading 200 Amazon reviews yourself, get a summary of what people love and complain about.

"Give me 10 engagement prompts I can use between product demos"

Stock up on these so you always have something ready.

"Write objection handlers for [product] -- people always ask about [concern]"

Get natural responses ready for products you already know the pushback on.

"Create urgency around [product] without being pushy or fake"

Authentic urgency language that drives action without feeling gross.

"Write a 45-minute live outline for [theme] with transitions"

Full structure for a themed live with product order and engagement breaks.

"What questions are people asking about [product] on reviews?"

The real concerns real people have -- so you can answer them before viewers even ask.

TIP

When you know what people worry about before they ask, you sound like an expert. You address concerns before they come up. Your audience feels like you did your homework -- because you did, it just took 2 minutes instead of an hour.

That's it

Prep used to take forever. Now you paste your product list, get everything you need, and walk into your live ready to sell. The AI handles the research and planning. You handle the audience and the energy.
