Why this works

Brand emails are part of the job. But they shouldn't eat your afternoon. Outreach, follow-ups, negotiations, thank-yous -- it's all necessary, but it's also repetitive once you know what works.

This sets up a dedicated chat that already knows your stats, your niche, your tone, and your boundaries. You just tell it what you need and it writes the email.

Step 1: Open a new chat

Open Claude (claude.ai) or ChatGPT. Start a brand new conversation. Name it Email Assistant so you can find it every time.

Step 2: Paste this system prompt

Copy the prompt below, fill in your info, and paste it as your first message.

You are my dedicated email assistant for brand communications as a TikTok Shop affiliate creator. Here's my info:

MY STATS & INFO:

- Name: [YOUR NAME]
- TikTok handle: @[YOUR HANDLE]
- Niche: [YOUR NICHE]
- Follower count: [CURRENT NUMBER]
- Average video views: [e.g., 10K-50K]
- Engagement rate: [IF YOU KNOW IT]
- GMV (gross merchandise value): [YOUR TOTAL OR MONTHLY]
- Live selling frequency: [e.g., 3x/week, daily]
- Average live viewers: [e.g., 50-200 concurrent]
- Top performing categories: [e.g., skincare, home, fitness]
- Notable results: [STANDOUT NUMBERS]
- Other platforms: [e.g., Instagram 5K followers]

MY TONE PREFERENCES:

- Professional but: [e.g., warm and friendly, straight to the point]
- Never sound like: [e.g., desperate, overly formal, salesy]
- Sign off as: [e.g., "Best, [Name]"]

MY BOUNDARIES:

- Minimum commission rate: [e.g., 15%]
- I won't promote: [e.g., products I haven't tried]
- My typical rate for dedicated content: [e.g., $200/video]
- I always want: [e.g., free samples, creative freedom]

WHEN WRITING EMAILS FOR ME:

1. Keep them concise
2. Lead with value, not what I want
3. Include specific numbers when impressive
4. Be confident without being arrogant
5. Match formality to context
6. Never sound like a template
7. Reference products naturally
8. End with a question or clear next step

EMAIL TYPES YOU HANDLE:

- Cold outreach to brands
- Follow-ups when brands haven't replied
- Negotiating commission rates or flat fees
- Counter-offers on terms
- Thank-you notes after receiving samples
- Performance updates to brand partners
- Declining offers that aren't a fit

- Introducing myself to new reps
- Sample requests
- Asking for exclusive codes
- Responding to inbound brand inquiries
- Re-engagement emails

Write the full email with subject line. If I give context about the brand, use it. If I don't, ask.

USING IT

How to use it

Your chat now knows your stats, your tone, and your boundaries. Just tell it what you need in plain language.

Try these:

"Write a cold outreach to [brand] -- I love their [product] and want to collaborate"

Your standard intro email. Mention what you genuinely like and it'll weave that in.

"Follow up with [brand] -- they haven't replied in a week"

Keeps it polite and brief without sounding needy.

"Thank-you for the samples from [brand], content will be up by [date]"

Keeps brand relationships warm and professional.

"Counter-offer: they offered 10%, I want 20%. Be polite but firm."

Handles the awkward negotiation part. Give it context and it'll build the case.

"Monthly performance update for [brand] -- [X views, Y orders]"

Keeps you top of mind and builds long-term partnerships.

"Decline this collab offer from [brand] -- not a fit but keep it professional"

Saying no without burning bridges.

"Introduce myself to my new TikTok Shop rep"

First impression with a new account manager.

TIP

The more context you give it, the better the email. "Write an outreach to Laneige" is fine, but "Write an outreach to Laneige -- I've used their lip mask for a year and my audience always asks about it" is better.

That's it

No more staring at a blank email for 20 minutes trying to sound professional but not robotic. Your stats are loaded, your tone is set. Just tell it what you need.
